BLIZZARD HITS AFTER TORNADO

By UPI

A snow storm of blizzard intensity drove into the midwest today on the heels of a killer tornado. The storm dropped a blanket of wind-whipped snow on plains and farmlands from Kansas to Minnesota.

Goodland, Kan., was virtually isolated behind four-foot deep snowdrifts. Snow hampered search and cleanup opera-tions at Belmond, Iowa, where a twister Friday killed at least six persons, injured scores of other persons, and levelled about 75 per cent of the town.

In Kansas, stranded motorists spent the night wherever they could find shelter. The weather bureau reported blizzard conditions in the area.

High winds, and possibly a tornado, struck St. Charles, Mo., Friday night, injuring at least 23 persons and overturning 34 trailer homes.

At least eight persons were killed in storm-related accidents in Colorado and Wyoming where up to two feet of snow fell Friday. Hundreds of persons were stranded on mountain slopes and in high valleys.

The snows closed schools and ripped down electric and telephone lines. At Belmond, the tornado moved down U.S. 69 just after hundreds of people had attended a high school football pep rally. Almost no building in the business district of the town of 2,500, one hundred miles north of Des Moines, escaped damage.

We received a tip this week on a hot story about a U.S. Air Force deserter who had been living here until the FBI snatched him away. Doubtless our tipsters are wondering why it never saw print. Here's why:

We gave the name and story to the RCMP, to Canadian im-migration authorities, and finally to the FBI district office at Seattle. All three offices said they knew nothing about the case and doubted its authenticity.

We checked the air line office which supposedly booked the man's flight back to custody. They'd never heard of him either. We checked the man's employer here. He said he couldn't believe the story.

The young man in question is missing from his apartment here. But no one seems worried and he could be anywhere. We don't say the story about the pouncing FBI agents is false. But there are enough doubts in our mind that we suspect some-one is trying to use us—either through mischief or with baser tive. We're not biting. But, as they say in the FBI, we haven't closed the file

Centennial planners at both the local and provincial level are sweating out the arrival of Nov. 19.

That's the cutoff date for applications from persons who wish to be honored as pioneers in 1967. And it becomes obvious that there are more qualified pioneers about than there are ap-

The centennial people have advertised the date repeatedly. But many senior residents don't seem to have noticed. But they'll sure notice when their friends get medals and they don't.

We have a suggestion for the centennial planners. If you want every qualified person to be notified, why not arrange with federal authorities to have a notice enclosed this month with every old age pension cheque? That way you'll reach the whole

Mrs. Malcolm McSorley of Munn Road had a tough time last summer. Her husband was in hospital and she was alone at home with a six-months-old baby when the well went dry. Munn Road is remote and rough and she was close to panic. Then she had an idea.

She asked Island Farms to rent her a tank truck so she could fill her well with water. Island Farms filled their tank, drove out and filled the well, for nothing. And that's how a commercial interest won a free plug and a pat on the back

Which moves us to quickly turn to a related thought. These sanitary covers are often seen in the U.S. in public washrooms, but seldom in Canada. One of the exceptions is the MLA's biffy at the Legislative Buildings. If we can afford to treat our elected officials with such delicacy, why not repeat the compliment in the places used by taxpayers in the Buildings? Workers arise!

policy now before Parliament indicates in general a liberalized "attitude to the admission of newcomers to this country. At the same time, it emphasizes literacy and employment skills as the chief criteria of admission, and for a nation which faces a great task of development in the coming decades these requirements are logical and, indeed,

It is not that no untrained man or woman will be permitted to become a resident. The policy is that the skilled worker will be preferred for the immediate contribution he secan make to the country's economy. There is, too, the consideration that in our increasingly mechanized and vautomated society, the jobs requiring a minimum of training will become fewer, and presumably there will be a sufficient number of workers already available in the country to fill them without encouraging a surplus of labor of a type difficult to accommodate.

The emphasis on skills broadens the picture as regards African and in life must be heard in simple Asian lands. Qualified immigrants will not be discriminated against on * grounds of race or origin, although rioinevitably there are likely to be more persons with skills applicable to Canada from European sources.

The worth of an immigration policy must be judged on its longterm results. The criterion must be:

THE NEW IMMIGRATION does it foster a prosperous, happy, unified twentieth-century population of a size able to cope with the problems of a large and relatively uninhabited half-continent. The nation's rate of growth should be paced so as not to cause harmful pressures on the economy or on the social amenities of the country. The population should not increase more rapidly than we can reasonably provide hospitals, schools, housing and other necessities of a properly functioning community. And the old Main Street philosophy-that anything that is bigger is therefore better-is not applicable.

We should build the nation through natural increase. We should add to it through the encouragement of persons of other countries who appear able and willing to contribute to our development through their labor, their culture and their lovalty to their new home. And we should not forget a responsibility to shelter a proportion of the unfortunate of the world—those deprived or handicapped or persecuted people whose appeal for a new opportunity terms of human need.

The present immigration policy appears to meet these requirements. It should not be considered as the last word in legislation, but as a feasible procedure for conditions as they are today, and subject to adaptation to meet the requirements of tomorrow.

Expo Grows

WHILE there appears to be general agreement that Expo 67 has a great deal to do yet in the field of promition abroad, the new opinion surveys forecasting an attendance of 35,000,000 instead of the original 30,000,-000, constitute heartening news, even though the bulk of the increase is attributed to Canadian interest.

Anyone who believes in this country wants Expo to be a success, if for no other reason than the fact that it would enhance Canada's prestige in many parts of the world.

At the official level, at any rate, the world is behind Canada in this effort, with some 70 countries taking part — the largest number of nations ever sembled in a world exhibition.

And, in several cases, it is the foreign commissioners-general who believe that Expo is being too conservative in its forecast of attendance.

The men who were intimately asso-clated with the last first-category exhibition — in Brussels, in 1958 — are firmly convinced, for example, that 40,000,000 visits will be reached by Expo next year.

Expo hasn't reached that figure yet in its predictions. But the upswing now announced certainly would appear to

The conference, with its bold resolu-ton on free trade, has changed that that it now knows where the party stands — unlike the official opposition which continues to postpone indefinitely

Unrepresentative Caucus

FROM OTTAWA

Reality Exposed After the Gordon Illusion

Laurier exposed the reality beneath the great illusion which apparently has governed many de-liberalism. To under-stand how this no-Western tion, now thoroughly discredited, achieved such amazing ascendancy, it is probably necessary to go back to the election of 1958 when the Liberal party in Parliament was reduced to a tiny and badly demoralized fragment based al-most wholly in Ontario and Quebec.

Pearson's Need

For the task of reconstruction Mr. Pearson desperately needed the help of all "liberally-minded" Canadians. It was then persuasively argued that a move-ment of opinion sufficient to overturn the most massive Conservative majority in history could be generated only by policies differing radically from those which liberalism had previously enter-

The Liberal party had always been notably tolerant of dissent. Among those who came forward during the Diefenbaker era to assist in reconstruction was Mr. Walter Gordon, the author of a roversial royal commission report on Canada's economic prospects and an advocate of economic nationalism. There had been a protectionist wing in the Liberal party at least since 1891 when commercial union. But Mr. Gordon had greatly refined the old theories and was able to present them persuasively in a more attractive modern dress.

Gordon's Value

Mr. Gordon's services in winning back Ontario were undoubtedly considerable and he entered the new government as minister of finance. His influence was heightened by the fact that he is an articulate, cultivated, self-confident man of great personal charm. But he was also greatly aided by the political circumstances of the time. For the Liberals regained office as a minority party, with scarcely any representation from the West and only limited entation from their other historic stronghold, the Maritime provinces.

In other words, the parliamentary party was almost made to order for Mr. Gordon. To members, he was one of the architects of Victory. To Quebec ent reason. There had grown up in French Canada great resentment against the domination of business and industry by English-Canadian firms. American domination of all Canada would be even worse. Mr. Gordon was the man with all sorts of schemes for curbing foreign intrusions and making Canada Canadian

- painlessly it was assumed. Patron of Radicals

To further buttress his position, Mr. Gordon soon established himself as a sort of ministerial patron of radical intellectuals and social reformers. The impression created was perhaps the greater because he is no down-at-heels agitator but a successful man of business and wealth who can even pass as a country squire.

It is true that Mr. Gordon floundered badly in Parliament, even though his principal critic was the late Mr. George Nowlan, a thoroughly genial and popular man conspicuously lacking in the killer instinct. But in the beginning Mr. Gordon's misfortunes merely won him sympathy support as the Liberals in Parliament rallied against their common

Thus an impression developed that Mr. Gordon's influence in cabinet and caucus corresponded to his strength in the country. This idea persisted, even after the 1965 election — for which Mr. Gordon took personal blame — probably heavily dominated by members from industrial constituencies in Ontario and Quebec. To them Mr. Gordon's radicalism more than compensated for his nationalist obsessions because, especially in Ontario, they could feel the hot breath of the New Democrats on the backs of their necks.

In the first Pearson ministry, there was only one strong Liberal voice from Western Canada; Mr. Arthur Laing, the minister of northern affairs. But he was isolated, even derided, partly because he stubbornly defended those very federal ideas which Mr. Sharp has again made fashionable. Mr. Laing was definitely avant-garde. There is little to be said for him except that he knew where the main stream of liberalism was when almost one else did.

Too Centralized

Meanwhile the Liberal government living with a central Canada caucus, strayed dangerously far from the thinking of its supporters across the country. It devoted itself so exclusively that its country is the state of the to welfare that it almost forgot the trade traditions of the party. It was, of course, ready to exploit and did exploit such foreign opportunities as presented them-selves within the context of existing trade institutions. But in this it differed little from the previous Conservative government whatever benefits resulted from devaluation.

Unfortunately for the government, it must still reckon with an unrepresentative caucus which may still share a good deal of Mr. Gordon's basic economic nationalism even although it must now be wary of some of his more ambitious The prospect of a free trade area may well appear to some MPs from industrial communities as disastrous as it does to the former minister of finance. Such a trade partnership implies commitments negotiated by the participating governments and the elimination of tariffs by agreed stages. The longer negotiations leading to commitments can be put off, the longer will industrialists be sheltered from foreign competition. Again, the pace of tariff elimination, according to the resolution, is to be determined by the government. The only proposal actually discussed by the Liberal workshop was that outlined by the Canadian -American committee. This private group suggested free trade within 10 years, to be achieved by periodic American cuts of 20 per cent and Canadian reductions of 10 per cent, with nuisance duties (of 5 per cent or less) to be eliminated by the end of the

Ground for Optimism in Russian-U.S. Relations

WESTERN diplomatists completed, this week, their annual exploration of the mind and temper of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. This exploration cannot be classified as entertainment. Gromyko may not be the dour and frosty enigma he was in the 1940s and '50s: but he still falls short of being a parlor raconteur at least, he does with westerners.

Moreover, the Soviet Union feels obliged to maintain a public posture of antagonism for the West. So long as the bombing of North Viet Nam continues, Moscow clearly does not wish to leave itself vulnerable to Chinese charges of 'collaboration' with "imperialist ag-

The periphery: Such non-central ssues as ratification of the consular treaty, increased trade, direct airline service, and more travel and cultural exchanges are in a fluid state. Agreements seem possible.

All of this stems in large part from a

But on one front it has so far been making progress: it has been quietly moving to-wards a modernization of Russia's lumbering centrally

Now it looks as if progress on this front too has for the moment gone as far as Mr. Kosygin and Mr. Brezhnev are willing to let it go.

Article Clue

The clue comes in the latest issue of the magazine Kom-munist in an article by Mr. Sitnin, the head of the state commission on prices. Mr. Sitnin spells out the increases the government has decided, to make in the prices of raw naterials and capital goods. The price of crude oil is to be doubled and that of coal, it The price of metals will go up by more than a third. Over the whole field the increase will average out at 11 or 12 per cent.

These increases are in themselves very much a move the right direction. For most firms producing raw materials and capital equip-ment they spell the end of the system by which managers were often obliged to sell their products well below and get the deficit made up by government subsidy. The distortions this system has produced have nade even Russian planners

But Mr. Sitnin, announcing this sensible change, takes the opportunity to make it clear that prices in Russia will go on being fixed by the central planners. "We cannot go in for free price formation," he less dramatic way, Mr. Sit-nin's article is the equivalent of the trial of Sinyavsky and Daniel in February.

In the experiment in liberalization they started last year, the Russians have given a fair degree of freedom to more than 200 factories proucing consumer goods.
These factories are now

The extra flexibility is a boon: most factories working under the new system already show a new sparkle, But th factories cannot exploit their newly won freedom to the full so long as prices go on being

The incompetent maker of shoddy shoes has less incentive to sharpen himself up unless he finds the price of his goods falling on the market. The efficient producer does not reap the full benefit of his efficiency unless he can push his prices up to what the market will bear.

Marxist Shiver

But that means letting an "autonomous price mecha-nism" loose in the land. The Russians have gazed at the spectre and a Marxist shiver has run down their spines.

One sees why. If successful firms are allowed a swig at the pleasures of price-freethey will soon also planning their investment, because they will want to make the most advantageous use of their expanding preats. They will presumably also start to haggle about the prices they pay for their raw materials and their capital equipment, instead of accepting what Mr.

But these two things control over investment, and control over basic prices are the two main levers by which the central planners keep the economy under their control. They will not want to afraid that when a communist party starts to lose its central control over the economy it is soon obliged to relax its control in political matters as has chosen to emphasize the pelvic area as pivotal.

In the single female figures, indeed, particularly the superb Dancer, the lower half of the torso is given both pivotal movement and sym-figures delicately emphasize the controlled rhythms of the main form by their uncon-trolled and random moveto elongate the legs, necks, and arms of the majority of ments; it is, simultaneously, amusing to note that these earrings are, in fact, com-monplace objects, being these pipe-like forms surround forms with fluid rhythmical sometimes curtain - runners and sometimes split-rings.

> Mr Rurteh transfigures ordinary objects from time to time; his War Steed, in which he uses the different metal colors to great effect, has a screw for horn, and a length of brass chain for mane and for tail. It thus contrives to mock, and to amuse, even while it expresses authori-tatively the monumental ele-ment of the subject.

Sometimes, of course, the sculptor over-reaches himself.

story from the Canadian North West The James Evans Story

When James Evans invented Cree syllabics and miraculously pro-duced literature on an improvised ress, he created a whole new orld for the Indian and Eskimo world for the Indian and Eskino who had never been able to read or write their own language. He tirelessly travelled the lonely north by dog-team and canoe, preaching and teaching until jealousy and intrigue brought his recall from Northway House in 1846. Incorporating original diaries, letters and journals, Nan Shipley tells the dramatic touching story of one of Canada's most vigorous pioneer misconaries.

Gilbey's reveal how the first Collins was made

It's entirely possible that the first Collins was made with Gilbey's London Dry.

How was the first Collins made? It was made by the Headwaiter at a London restaurant. Not surprisingly, his name was Mr. Collins. It's entirely possible that he mixed the drink with Gilbey's London Dry Gin because this gin has been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years. Its perfect balance gives a fresh, clean tasting drink.

Original Tom Collins My name is Mr. Collins, Headwaiter at Limmers Corner of Conduit Street,

Hanover Square My chief occupation is filling of brimmers

For all the young gentlemen frequenters there.

Tallest of all the "brimmers" made by Mr. Collins was a mixture of gin, lemon juice, sugar and 'charged' water. Today, it is know the world over as the Tom Collins.

Speedy Tom Collins

Today of course you can mix your Collins much more speedily. Where Mr. Collins had to squeeze fresh lemons you can use frozen lemonade. And where Mr. Collins had to crack his ice from the block you can take yours straight from the freezer. But you still begin with Gilbey's London Dry. Its perfect balance gives a fresh, clean tasting drink.

You can rely on Gilbey's London Dry, a perfectly balanced gin that gives you a fresh, clean tasting drink. This gin is an international favourite, sold in 92 countries. It's been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years.

WOODWARD'S, THE ORIGINAL 1.49 DAY

GUEST SOLOIST with Victoria Symphony Orchestra at the second pair of concerts, October 23 and 24, is the American pianist, Richard Norris. Much acclaimed both in Europe and the United States for his lyrical-virtuosic performance of works of Franz Liszt, he is to play here Liszt's Piano Concerto No. 1 in E flat major. Otto-Werner Mueller will conduct. Box office is at Eaton's ticket centre.

Concluding this part of the season will be the traditional Festival of Nine Lessons and Carols to take place Dec. 18 at 4 p.m. For the last few years this service has drawn a capacity congregation to the cathedral.

Singing carols and Christmas hymns, the boys' choir will perform on television Dec. 23 and on a radio broadcast on Christmas Day.

Singers Display Great Versatility In Twin Operas

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Musically speaking, production of the traditional ins," Cavalleria Rusticana and I Pagliacci, premiered Thursday at Queen Elizabeth Theatre by Vancouver Opera Association, is to a high degree successful and, in fact, something of a rarity.

Casts seldom double when the operas are teamed but three of the imported stars—Marie Collier, Francisco Lazaro and Robert Savole—accomplished that tour de force without turning a musical hair. Only superior vocal quality, stamina and experience could make this possible.

Chestnuts the operas doubtedly are, but in this production they appear next week. For opera buffs era, thanks principally to the tichly romantic genre reading of guest conductor. Other of guest conductor Otto-

Last Sunday hight saw one of the best attended dances in town this year.

More than 700 people passe through the doors at Vic-toria's Club Tango where a two-band, four-hour deal

On hand were a local bank, the new Take Four (formerly the Victorian Sect) and Seattle's always popular Wailers.

The Take Four went -on stage sharp at 8 p.m. as crowds still lined up halfway down the block outside the Tango. Dressed in black dotted shirts their driving proved to the why they were so well re-ceived in the Seattle nite-spot, The B.F.D.'s.

The Wailers hit the stage just as the SRO signs were tacked to the door.

Their big change in style first shook the crowd and kept more than a few eyes glued to the stage. Since their last visit to Victoria just over a year show that keeps moving with action. They are definately a band who are moving towards the top in the U.S. music and considering way Victoria crowds, who at times are looked upon being somewhat choosy, filled the hall I am sure that we'll soon hearing about their return to Victoria.

Uvic Offers Three-Play Season

University of Victoria's Phoenix Theatre is offering, for the first time, a special subscription rate for its season of three plays.

Productions to be offered this season are The Braggart Warrior, a translation from the Latin of Plautus by Uvic's Dr. Peter Smith, The Potter's Field, an original play by Uvic graduate Louis Capson, and Endgame by Samuel Beckett.

Presented by the Camp Players and directed by Carl Hare, The Braggart Warrior will be performed Nov. 15 through 19 and Nov. 22 through 26.

The other two plays are scheduled for late January and February.

Frederick Edell of the theatre division faculty, who will direct Endgame, will also direct a second Beckett opus, Waiting for Godot, in March, but this will be a special event not included in the series.

Anyone interested in subscribing for the series can obtain a brochure and application form by phoning the Phoenix box office, 477-4821, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on

PROTOTYPE AIDS WORSHIP

Covenant Players of First United Church, directed by Robert Nelson, will be spon-sored by St. Matthias Little Theatre Society in a performance of The Prototype, Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the church, corner of Richardson and Richmond Roads.

The play is described by the director as one of humor and drama combined with a unique experience of worship. Refreshments will be served in the church hall following open to anyone interested.

Pilous, former coach of Victoria Maple Leafs and now head man with the California Seals, had signatures of all his players on new Western Hockey League contracts as he awaited tonight's game against Victoria Maple Leafs.

In a much more uncomfortable position was Houle, general manager of the Leafs, last season's playoff champions Despite luring several holdouts into the fold Friday, Houle still had eight players unsigned this morning and was making last-ditch efforts today to satisfy salary demands before tonight's starting time of 8:30 at Memorial Arena.

"I expect to sign some of them, perhaps even all of them, before game time tonight," Buck said before resuming talks today.

He again declined to disclose which players were still unsigned, but it is probable that some of his biggest stars are giving him the biggest headaches.

That Thursday morning frost put the final red-glow on

It served too as the first serious reminder that, blessed though we are with mild winters, our homes need a little heat if we want to watch TV in comfort.

With that first frost dozens of solid citizens took their first look at the furnace since they flicked the "off" switch late last spring. And discovered that all is not well with that so vital piece of equipment. With that discovery some amateurs pulled out their work tools and set to work to correct the sick sounding

INSIDE CITY HALL

Curtis Handled Ticklish Task

Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich, chairman of the Regional District of the capital of B.C., handled one of his toughest chores Wednesday with great diplomacy and restraint.

Knowing he had a ticklish task on hand he remained firm, fair and kind at a time when wrong words or voice inflection eould have touched off a huffy dog-fight, If bouquets were handed out for jobs welldone, Reeve Curtis would get the manship.

In the receiving line with him would be city clerk Mor-ran Waller and his right hand man George Merz, although their bouquets would be awarded for other reasons.

Messrs Waller and Merz were the gentlemen in charge of the ceremonies leading up to the awarding of the Freedom of the city to Bob May-working city hall staff, they pulled off a bug-free operation which started right on the dot of 2 p.m. and ran for 37 minutes without a hitch.

It looked easy, but anyone who has attended similar functions knows how fraught with danger such protocol demanding operations are.

Both gentlemen, and the young ladies who acted as ushers, can take a bow from centre stage.

Things won't be the same wound city hall next week when switchboard operator Nada Manhas devotes full time to scrambling eggs and calls.

Some folks have said that the departing young lady did not project the perfect image to customers calling in. This reporter is here to challenge

And one final item: Because of a switch in word-ing the Times report Thursday of the reginal district board meeting gave a wrong impres-sion of the city's position on the sewer issue, making it appear the city was opposed before the board.

What happened was this: Reeve Alan Cox of Oak Bay on.

Phase one asked the board to endorse, in principle, the recommendations of the now three-month-old sewerage study survey.

Victoria balked at that. The city's delegates felt that before they could endorse any part of the Saanich Peninsula sewerage program all details of the cost sheet—in other words a cost sharing formula must be spelled out in de-

Phase two called for the establishment of a technical and financial committee to lind out just what, exactly, the share of the costs would be.

Victoria delegates were solidly in favor of phase two. They, as is a matter of pub-lic record, wanted the costsharing formula established before they took a second step. Phase one, calling for en-dorsation of the survey recommay be, did not win Victoria upport.

Unfortunately the story printed in Thursday's Times had Victoria voting unanimously against the establishestablish a cost-sharing

So, for the record: Victoria does not endorse, in principle or otherwise, the recommendations of the sewerage survey

It does endorse, firmly and unanimously, the establish-ment of a committee to find out just how much the sewerage trunk lines will cost each municipality.

Hospital Crisis Talks With Province Backed

Victoria council Friday backed a proposal made by Ald. Robert Baird calling for a series of discussions with the provincial government on hos-

The long, leisurely way-48 days across the Pacific with P&O!

See two-thirds of the world on your way to Or just lie back in a deck chair (free, by the way) Europe next March-for as little as $19 a day. Pick out your cabin on P&O's 42,000-ton super-liner Oriana, the biggest ship ever built in England. Then set sail from Vancouver March 20, bound for high adventure as you take the new way to Europe.

Ahead of you lie ports of call in California, Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Ceylon, Aden, Egypt and the Suez Canal, Italy, France, Gibraltar and England.

For six long weeks you soak up sunshine and abandon yourself to the pleasures of P&O's thoughtful British service. (There is one crewman for every two passengers.) You'll meet fascinating shipmates from the four corners of the world.

P&O's Oriana is one of the "biggest bloomin' ships sailing the seven seas." She's your air-conditioned hotel all the way to Europe. You can swim in one of Oriana's three swimming pools, each with its own outdoor café. Play cricket on deck. Dance.

What does it cost? As little as $811 tourist class, $1197 first class. (Note: After a month in Europe you can take P&O's Orsova home by way of the Caribbean and Panama Canal. Fares for this complete trip around the world start at just $1181.) Mail the coupon for free illustrated literature. Then see your travel agent and run away to sea on Oriana! All fares in U.S. currency.

British Columbia's premier has jolted his people with a bluntly-worded warning that we must pull in our belts or else and I suppose we should take him seri-ously. After all, Mr. Bennett has been pilot of this province since 1952. As such, he knows - or should know - the state of B.C.'s economic health better than any of us.

Nevertheless, I find myself startled by a change of climate that seems to have mier's gloomy ton contrasts most strangely with the confidence that radi ated from the budget speech which he made to our Legislative Assembly just over

"British Columbia," Mr. declared on that occasion, "is advancing at a rate never before imagined. and each year sees new records in capital investment, records in capital investment, in production of goods and services, and in personal income. From present indications, the coming fiscal year is to be no exception, and it is province's prosperity is assisted by firm and well-controlled provincial govern-ment financial and economic principles."

Why the change of tune? What's happened to justify these present delorous croak-

Characteristically, Mr. Ben-nett has chosen to lambaste profit-hungry big business and greedy unions for the state of danger in which he now so dramatically finds us. But, the watchward up to and through the premier's Sep-tember election campaign, it seems to me these chidings fail to place such blame as need be allotted where it belongs.

This is upon a Social Credit government that has been singularly tardy in sounding ar alarm; an omission with which the premier's political foes have been quick to tax

And so he must. At this point, though, I think we should take a look at just what state, exactly, we may be approaching.

Times are likely to be somewhat tough, largely through a falling-off in the lumber export market, and it may well be that we will no longer enjoy the fantastic prosperity of recent years.

We may, in fact, return to an economic state approaching normal . . . but if there's ence of an imminent erash, I fail to see it. What I do see - and here we come to the nub of the matter - is that Mr. Bennett's fairweather government may very well be in trouble.

You can live by a fairy-tale only so long. Then, like it or not, comes the enforced return to reality.

For year upon year, Mr. Bennett has insisted that ours is a debt-free province, paying as it goes, and racking up handsome budgetary reserves. Ours was the empire of the west, and the gold in them thar hills was limitless.

That kind of happy-talk is easy to take, especially when supported by the public burn-ing of a barge-load of bonds and such-like extravaganzas.

Today, we see a different

The same premier who, no long time past, was slanging the federal government is now reported to be seeking $60 million from Ottawa in order that his government may

BOARD TIGHTENS CONTROL ON OVERTIME

Only Emergency Permits Issued

The chairman of the Board of Industrial Relations said Friday existing overtime permits in B.C. have not been cancelled

William Sands, also deputy labor minister, said tighter control is being exercised by the board in issuing new. overtime permits.

Permits now will only be granted in cases of emergency, he said.

Permits are required before em-ployers can have their workers exceed the limitations set out in the Hours of Work Act. This is eight hours in one day and 44 hours in one week. The law applies (subject to exceptions within the act and in later regulations) to all industries listed in

This includes production-line manufacturing, barbering, retail and wholesale trade, baking, catering, transportation, hotels, cemetery workers, taxis, bartenders, steam engineers and special engineers.

The act provides for a fine not exceeding $500 for anyone convicted of breaking the limits.

It also states that employers shall not cause employees to work past these limits and "nor shall any em-ployee work longer."

Here then is the way TITEWAD recommends you conduct yourself when your United Appeal canvasser rings

1. Act completely surprised. This is easy when the canvasser happens to be the mayor or one of the reeves or your next door neighbor. But if it's somebody you've never seen before you must seize the upper hand at once.

This Monday 3,000 United Appeal canvassers take to the streets for two weeks of doorbell-ringing to help you make the community a better place

Led by Mrs. Margaret Wright, veteran of 20 years service in the United Appeal, the canvassers will blanket the area from Metchosin to

The Institute recommends you pretend you haven't read or heard the spate of advance publicity for the campaign and open the contest with the words: "Oh! It's you again." .

And she will want to tell you that if everyone gave a "fair share" the United Appeal would be over before it

Break in at once with, "Yes, quite, and what is your fair share?"

Leer at this point, stretchther at mis point, stretching it to an incredulous grin when she protests that canvassers get nothing for their hours of pavement-pounding and door-bell-ringing, and that in fact nobody in the campaign gets paid.

3. You now have her on the defensive. Move in quickly with, "Of course, but we both. that no one in their right mind would do all the work you people do for nothing."

Then before she gets a hance to reply, say, "Okay then. I give in. You want a handout for people who won't you must quit while you're

Given a chance she will tell you that almost none of the Chest agencies is engaged in welfare. That the YM-YW, for example, gets the second largest chunk of the United Appeal dollar, and the Scouts and the Boy's Club and the St. John Ambulance are Chest agencies. That service rather than welfare is the key to the United Appeal. If you give her a chance to hit you with that you'll have to crumble and give grudgingly. So seize your chance to seem generous and sign a pledge for twice what she expected while pretending you're not really convinced.

That way you can wrest victory from defeat and pre-tend you are giving charity to others when you're really providing service for yourself.

Women of all ages—men, too, for that matter—can usually manage to settle any differences with a quiet chat by a warm fireplace. Here, the show's Gibson Girl (Eula Milino), dressed in her business-like blouse and skirt that became the earmark of the independence of women in her period, shares the comfort of an old-fashioned heater with the Victorian Woman (Kip Wallis), graciously uncomfortable in the elaborate gown and hair-do of her era.

Here's the gal that started it all! From the time the first cave woman robbed the family roast to make some over-sized baubles for her hair, women have fascinated the other sex with the adroitness in which they manage to change appearances with a flip of a comb and brush. Seen peering out of her 1966-style cave is Cave Woman Wendy Mudrak.

Complete with headache band and jangling beads, Sharron Higgins recalls the Roaring 20s, proving that every generation has come equipped with its own way-out set!

One of the most unique shows to be staged in Victoria will be held at Holyrood House next Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. Using a storybook form, it will show how milady has valued and cared for her tresses ever since the first cave woman had hers yanked by an over-zealous spouse. The production will also have a chapter on modern-day misses, spanning the distance from "the little girl who had a little curl, right in the middle of her forehead," to Mom and fashion-fond Grandma.

All the hair-dos will be the work of the stylists in the Raymond Salon at Woodward's and each costume has been designed and made by William L. Paterson, head of the store's display department.

The presentation is under the sponsorship of the Alpha Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and proceeds will be given to the Handicapped Children's Society.

Curling irons and false hair never received a more enthusiastic workout than during the days when Rome ruled the world. On some occasions the fashionable woman of that time indulged in a dye job—usually yellow! Bringing the Roman empress Calpurnia back to life for the show is Rosalie Essihos.

Everything went to her head . . . literally. In 1774 a new queen of fashion, Marie Antoinette (Nancy Janes) kept France agog, waiting to see her latest hair do. This particular creation is topped by a model of the ship La Belle Poule and was worn by Marie Antoinette in celebration of the ship's victory over the English vessel Arethusa.

Queen Elizabeth I (Judy Dagg) looks as if affairs of state weigh heavily, even in her off-hours. On second thoughts, it could be she's planning a new gown . . . she owned no less than 3,000 when she died!

Cleopatra (Joan Thompson) could tell you a thing or two about wigs. In her day, both men and women wore them, for practical reasons as well as adornment, they helped keep the head cool! From relics found in tombs, we also know that they also loved to add a spot of color to both their hair and their skins.

Youthful charmers from Polly Peck . . .

It never ceases to amaze us how such an old, old country as England should produce such spirited young clothes . . . the very epitome of youth, in fact . . and we here in Victoria get a fine sampling of these swinging English things at the Madam and Eve Shop . . . Last week M & E got some new dresses and coats from Polly Peck of London . . . There's a couple of cocktail dresses that should turn more than a few male heads . . One is pale blue or pale pink angora with double pear-shaped plastic discs hanging all over the high bodice and sleeves . . it may sound funny in the telling, but actually it's a knockout . . Then there's a black crepe with shiny black plastic discs outlining the neck and armholes . . Either of these would be great for the Christmas holiday season . . There's a cranberry day dress . . simple A-line with a half-belt in frost under the high bosom . Also comes in camel, royal blue and mauve . . And a simply smashing coat in camel and grey tweed . . double-breasted with buttons marching almost to the bottom . . empire line with welt-seaming under the bosom and continuing with a high half-belt at the back . . We had one of the gals model this one for us, and believe us, it's got simply everything! . . . Madam and Eve Shop, Trounce Alley, 383-7177.

New Canadian-made ski and after-ski clothes include plaid blanket ponchos with and without sleeves . . . an astronaut's suit of black vinyl . . . bell-bottom ski pants, and a white ensemble with turquoise crocheted collar and cuffs.

Remember the old, comfortable tweed suit which every "man of distinction" used to own? . . Still fine on the English moors . . . but hardly the thing for today's busy executive . . The trusty tweed has a modern replacement, though . . . the Country-Town suit tallored by Warren K. Cook . . . an entirely new concept in men's clothing . . The jacket is patterned . . in as discreet (or bold) a design as any man could wish . . while the trousers are perfect matches but in a plain weave using a blend of one or more of the dominant colors of the jacket . . Fabries used are either Devon Twist . . pure virgin wool, of course . . . with a sunerset finish that will stand up nobly to wear and travel . . and "Black Prince." a lighterweight wool fabrie in many patterns and colors . . . Wilson's have a big selection of these Country-Town suits, and they're understandably excited about them . . So are we, and we urge you to saunter over the men's clothing department next time you're in Wilson's and see for yourself . . then go home and tell your dear ones (male variety) how they can be superbly well dressed for every occasion. . . in one and the same suit! . . 106th Birthday The Anglican parish of St

Luke will celebrate its 106th anniversary at the church at 3821 Cedar Hill Cross Road

First service in the area, then known as Cedar Plains, was conducted by Bishop Wil-liam Hills in August 1860. Later Bishop Hills appointed Rev. A. C. Garrett as mission ary in charge of the district.

The first church was opened on Oct. 25, 1862, and replaced by the present building on June 7, 1888. The bell which was rung at the opening serv-ice is still in use. MOTHER CHURCH

St. Luke's has been called the mother church of Saanich. Out of its original district have been formed the parishes of St. Michael's, Royal Oak; St. Alban's, Ryan Street; St. George's, Cadboro Bay; St. Dunstan's, Gordon Head, and St. Peter's, Lake Hill.

Many well-recognized clergy have served the parish, includ-ing the late Bishop G. A. Wells of Cariboo, Archdeacon H. A. Collison, Archdeacon Connell and Canon Frederick

The present rector, Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff, will conduct anniversary services in the church Sunday, when preacher will be Rt. Rev H. R. Ragg, former Bishop of

Social Action Urged

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) ncreased church participation in social action received general support this week from delegates to the Canadian Lutheran welfare conference.

But Rev. Fred A. Schole of Leduc, Alta., told the conference the church should approach with caution the question of social action.

"I look with uneasiness upon the church now launching out in social work to the point where we become just another sec-tarian organization," Mr. Schole said.

"We must remember that the church has only one ministry; to preach the gospel, administer the sacraments, and train its members . . . . I believe social action is primarily the respon-sibility of the government."

Other delegates, however, challenged the church's present silence concerning social prob-

Hastings War Memory Takes Licking

LONDON (UPI) — Britons almost fought a battle Friday to commemorate the 900th anniversary of the battle that history books couldn't do without — Hastings, 1066.

William the Conqueror and his Norman invaders beat the English under King Harold or Oct. 14 that year at a place seven miles from the south coast town of Hastings that is appropriately called Battle. The second battle was almost fought at London's Trafalgar Square post office when it started issuing anniversary stamps at midnight. Several hundred persons were waiting to get the first ones and scuffles broke out over claims of line jumping. POLICE ESCORT

One dissatisfied customer complained there was so needed a police escort to get an ordinary fourpenny (four-cent) stamp to send a letter to his aunt.

The special stamps show scenes from the ancient Bayeux tapestry which told the story of the Norman conquest in stitched pictures of exquisite delicacy. The Trafalgar post office, pen all night, reckoned it sold $196,000 worth of stamps The town of Battle itself was marking the anniversary with a banquet lunch and the unveiling of a plaque in Battle Abbey by Prince Jean de Broglie, French foreign af-fairs secretary of state, to commemorate the fusion of the English and Norman

BUZ SAWYER BAD GUY ON KREMLIN'S BOOKS

MOSCOW (AP)—Comic strip character Buz Sawyer today joined Batman on the Kremlin's list of bad guys. Prayda reproduced one panel of the U.S. comic strip in an effort to show its readers that American comics are trying to create support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The panel shows a group of U.S. Navy flyers who have just returned from a bombing raid. One of them is saying he dropped napalm bombs where he had been told to.

The official Communist party paper told its readers producers of these comics "try to do with kids that which they do not succeed in doing with half the grown-up population of the United States, namely: "To convince them of the necessity and the just character of the aggression in Viet Nam."

U.S. Investors Cast Eyes At Canada Lakes for Fun

you are looking for waterfront property, head north.

This is the advice given by Perry A. Risberg, Hayward, Wis., realtor who specializes in recreational real estate, in an article written for the bulletin of the National Insti-tute of Real Estate Brokers.

Risberg says: "East, west or south in the United States, there are very few waterfront lots available for less than in any number of places. Only in northern regions, where there are lakes, can the average man hope to find a lake shore lot within his People used to think our forests were inexhaustible, but learned otherwise. Similarly, Risberg said, lake frontages will prove totally insufficient to meet the demands of the near future.

'Not one more foot of natural lake shore exists than there was a thousand years ago.

Man can build flowages, creating new lakes, but the opportunities are limited. Further, man-made lakes seldom compare with the natural

Sportsmen purchase sizable acreages at prices that later seem ridiculously low. Inexpensive fishing and huntcamps predominate. Gradually, amenities are added. Increasing demand for a limited supply of waterfront property forces prices to rise. Soon the land is split into inexpensive vacation home-

"Owners' fondness for their "Owners fordiness for their spot keeps growing; they pour in money, winterize the premises, and dream of staying longer," Risberg said. "Then the inexpensive cabins are upgraded, roads are improved, electricity and telephones installed, schools and shoots are built. Civilization. shops are built. Civilization

"Land values soar, booming, lake-shore property suddenly is nonexistent. Where there used to be many lots of a generous size, small portions are now sold by the front foot instead of by the acre. Trends occur in a sequence because the land finally becomes too expensive for even higher priced residential use. Then, all goes commerical. This sequence, illustrating the search for the highest and best use, follows a predictable

Modern Now Means Mechanical Fad'

CHICAGO (UPI) - Modern "We must respond to outurniture is living in a house own needs." furniture is living in a house of glass. It should be living in a house by Glass, according to designer Henry Glass.

At least, says Glass, home furnishings should be designed by someone with "esthusma." To understand the Glassic ideas (it's difficult not to play with words after talking to him), a word about this word.

"Esthusma" is a word Glass says he contrived to cover principles of good design. It combines the first letters of the words esthetics, use and materials. Glass emphasizes he did not formulate it as a principle.

"This is an old thing," he says. "I just kind of in desperation developed the name since all the other names implying these things have been abused by the trade and have lost their semantical menions."

"Modern," Glass insists, "now means something mechanical — a fad. You must say what kind of modern you mean — Swedish, Scandinavian, Italian, so on. There are many kinds of "Contemporary. That's another word, eh? It has been watered down in the trade so that now it comes to mean some mish-mash between something up-to-date and something traditional."

There is today little "modern" furniture in the best sense of the word — the race when it came out of caves, and even before that."

Do esthetic requirements change? If so, why?

"Esthetical requirements go hand-in-hand with our material response to the needs of today and the new technology we have with us." An ex-ample? Look at television — as an idea. "Before the idea of television was invented no one would have known what a television set looked like — just like the horseless car-

Good Harvests Reported By Chinese

HONG KONG (Reuters) China's provinces are reporting good harvests after battling drought and other natural calamities, the New China news agency said today.

In central China, Honan prov In central China, Honan province's good summer harvest of wheat was followed by an excellent over - all harvest, it claimed. Cotton output went up "by a wide margin," oil seeds and tobacco were up 50 per cent and tussah silk cocoons by about 100 per cent, the agency said.

Situated along the lower reaches of the Yellow River, the province traditionally suffers from too much or too little wa-ter. However, this year the agency said, even the poor coun-ties which used to be dependent on grain from other parts of the country achieved a surplus.

The success was said to be due to the sinking of 141,000 wells—one-third of them electrically operated—extension of irrigation systems and the bringing of 660,000 hectares (1,500,000 acres) more land un-

However, the agency made no mention of drought - stricken Kwangtung province where millions took part in a drive to save fall crops.

Earlier this week authorities in the province broadcast an urgent appeal for more help from peasants and students following forecasts of an indefinite prolongation of the three-monthlong drought. Late rice crops were said to have been seriously affected.

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The two northern India states of Uttar Pradesh and Bihar face a new threat of famine following failure of the rains for second straight year, it was reported here today.

Reports from Lucknow said Uttar Pradesh was threatened by the worst drought in its history, affecting 75,000 village with a population of 60,000,000.

Three Died Instantly Inquest Told

A pathologist testified Thursday night that three persons must have died instantly from the "tremendous" impact in a Malahat head-on crash Saturday

The crash, worst ever on one of Vancouver Island's most scenic drives, eventually claimed five lives when two children died later.

Dr. Garth Walther said at the opening of the inquest Thursday that the two Duncan men in one car, Richard Corfield and Louis Dobson, suffered multiple chest, skull and brain injuries, any one of which could have been fatal. ONE SURVIVOR

Mrs. Elsie Lambert of Vic toria, in the other car, also died at the scene of heart injuries. Her two children, Ian, 12, and Julie, 10, died in hospital later Sole survivor of the crash at the Shawnigan Lake cutoff was Mrs. Lambert's husband, Middleton, 51.

Coroner Edmond St. Jorre adjourned the inquest until Nov. 14 when it is hoped Mr. Lambert will be well enough to British Columbia's premier has jolted his people with a bluntly worded warning that we must pull in our belts or else and I suppose we should take him seri-ously. After all, Mr. Bennett has been pilot of this province since 1952. As such, he knows — or should know - the state of B.C.'s economic health better than any of us.

Nevertheless, I find myself startled by a change of climate that seems to have mier's gloomy cement from Frederic ton contrasts most strangely with the confidence that radiated from the budget speech which he made to our Legis-lative Assembly just over seven months ago. "British Columbia," Mr Bennett declared on hat occasion, "is advancing at a rate never before imagined. and each year sees new records in capital investment, in production of goods and services, and in personal income. From present indications, the coming fiscal year is to be no exception, and it is rewarding to know that the province's prosperity is assisted by firm and wellcontrolled provincial govern-ment financial and economic principles."

Why the change of tune? What's happened to justify these present dolorous croakings?

Characteristically, Mr. Bennett has chosen to lambaste profit-hungry big business and greedy unions for the state of danger in which he now so dramatically finds us. But, since limitless prosperity was the watchward up to and through the premier's September election campaign, it seems to me these chidings fail to place such blame as need be allotted where it belongs.

This is upon a Social Credit government that has been singularly tardy in sounding ar alarm; an omission with which the premier's political foes have been quick to tax

"He is in office under false pretences if we accept his statement today," growls Opposition leader Bob Strachan. "He must have known before Sept. 12 (last B.C. election date) what we were headed

And so he must. At this point, though, I think we should take a look at just what state, exactly, we may be approaching.

Times are likely to be somewhat to ugh, largely through a falling-off in the lumber export market, and it may well be that we will no longer enjoy the fantastic

We may, in fact, return to an economic state approach-ing normal...but if there's evidence of an imminent crash, I fail to see it. What I do see — and here we come to the nub of the matter — is that Mr. Bennett's fairweather government may very well be in trouble.

You can live by a fairy-tale only so long. Then, like it or not, comes the enforced return to reality.

For year upon year, Mr. Bennett has insisted that ours is a debt-free province, paying as it goes, and racking up ne budgetary reserves Ours was the empire of the west, and the gold in them har hills was limitless.

That kind of happy-talk is easy to take, especially when supported by the public burning of a barge-load of bonds and such-like extravaganzas. Today, we see a different and disquieting picture.

The same premier who, no the federal government is now reported to be seeking $60 million from Ottawa in order that his government may meet its commitments.

Had soters known the true shape of provincial affairs when Mr. Bennett sought another term in the premier's chair, they might have chosen to impose stern checks upon a Social Credit government laboring under difficulties.

But the vote is in, and like or not, we must make the best of the situation. At least, from this point on, we can hope to be spared any "debt-free province"

Permits now will only be granted in cases of emergency, he said.

Permits are required before employers can have their workers exceed the limitations set out in the Hours of Work Act. This is eight hours in one day and 44 hours in one week. The law applies (subject to exceptions within the act and in later regulations) to all industries listed in

This includes production-line manufacturing, barbering, retail and wholesale trade, baking, catering, transportation, hotels, cemetery workers, taxis, bartenders, steam engineers and special engineers.

The act provides for a fine not exceeding $500 for anyone convicted of breaking the limits. It also states that employers shall not cause employees to work past these limits and "nor shall any employee work longer."
